

AbstractAuthentication Method And System

5

The present invention relates to a method for determining the authenticity of an object, the method comprising the steps of:

10 - providing an authentication code,

 - determining the positions of particles being distributed in an object,

 - encoding of the positions to provide a check-code,

15 - using the check-code and the authentication-code to determine the authenticity of the object.

(Figure 5)

20